Jerry Roxberg, 17, Redwood High School student of Corte Madera, surveys the confusion left by three Northwestern Pacific freight cars which went in different directions yesterday as a switch mysteriously opened after the lead car had passed over. The mixup, which derailed two of the cars near Paradise Drive in Corte Madera, may have been caused by children tampering with the switch, railroad officials said. Damage to cars and tracks was estimated at less than $1,000. A bulldozer and 50ton crane will be sent to clean up the mess early Monday morning. (Independent-Journal photo)

Half-Million Industrial Site Is Sold

A half-million-dollar industrial site in San Rafael, which has been on the market for two years, has been purchased by three San Rafael businessmen.

The five-acre property and nine plant buildings formerly occupied by H. C. Little Burner Co. at Woodland Avenue and Du Bois Street have been sold to the Woodland Development Co., a partnership of Carlisle Rickards Jr., William M. Davis and Ernest Beckstrom. The transaction was handled by William Watt and Glenn Egnew of Adams and Watt, San Anselmo.

The two main plant buildings which constitute most of the 65,000 square feet under roof will be raised two feet above flood level and remodeled, Rickards said.

The office buildings will also be repainted, the vacant part of the land filled and the spur track replaced by a road. He said filling has already begun and work on raising the building will be completed in 30

Rickards added that they hope to interest one or two eastern organizations in occuto suit the needs of smaller tenants, he said.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Powers Homecoming Planned

WISE, Va. (UPI) — U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers will get a homecoming reception - although not an elaborate one - in the National Guard Armory at nearby Big Stone Gap, Va., when he comes home Monday.

Mayors from seven Wise County towns, the county chamber of commerce, the county supervisors and Clinch Valley College officials yesterday voted to hold the reception for Powers.

The 35-year-old pilot was released by the Russians Feb. 10 after spending almost three years in prison.

"I don't think anyone around here has any hostile feelings toward him," said Sol Cury, a civic leader at nearby Norton, Va. "There will probably be some welcoming speeches but I don't think there will be anything elaborate.'

Many Christians See Church Unification As Threat To Religious Freedom, Doctrine

By LOUIS CASSELS U. P. INTERNATIONAL

This church unity movement sounds like a wonderful idea, writes a woman in Bakersfield. But there are many Christians who look upon it as a fearful thing.

She's right. And it's time these dissenters had their day

The case for reuniting the Christian family has been stated often and eloquently in recent years by leaders of the Roman Catholic Church and major Protestant communions. Some folks have tians. gotten the idea that no one is against church unity except a few bigots and hate-mongers.

FREEDOM THREAT

But that is not true. There are millions of sincere people, particularly in the fundamentalist or "evangelical" wing of Protestantism, who oppose the church unity movement because they regard it and sound doctrine.

In an effort to present their Boston. viewpoint as fully and fairly

MATT FARR REPORTS ON RAFAEL RACQUET CLUB ESTATES

As residential sales manager for the Estates I have talked with each buyer and members of their family. Their varied reasons for buying in this area brings proof to our pledge that we have something for everyone at Rafael Racquet Club Estates.

Some have chosen mainly from the extreme beauty of the surroundings. Others admire the quality of the buildings and the originality of the architecture and are grateful for the selection of home styles that make Racquet Clubs Estates distinctive. The Racquet Club Community Center and it's many facilities and services appeal to most. Then, of course, they are surprised at the ease with which they may buy . . . and the many, many services we give before, during and after the actual sale.

May I invite you to call on us. I would be pleased to personally conduct you through as many homes as you wish to see. Perhaps I can illustrate why, as a resident sales manager, we believe in giving service to our residents . . . as prospects, as buyers and as established members of the Rafael Racquet Club Estate community.

Giants-Houston Trade Rumors Fly; McCovey For Infielder Amalfitano?

PHOENIX — Summed up briefly, there is nothing wrong with the S. F. Giants that Willie McCovey can't cure. If it is decided to trade or sell the big first sacker, (and it looks that way,) all the rumors persist that there is something cooking with Houston that might bring back Joe Amalfitano. The rumors will continue to fly as long as McCovey continues to play the outfield.

Lincoln Slept Here

James Rutledge's Tavern where Lincoln roomed for a while. Here he met Ann Rutledge. They were reported to be sweethearts. Family moved in 1833. She died two years later.

First of two stores run by Lincoln and William Berry is now U. S. postoffice. Clerk John Doyen gives Carla Rebbie a letter.

New Salem, Ill., was Abraham Lincoln's 'university of hard knocks." He arrived there in late July of 1831, 'like a floating driftwood," poor, uneducated, aimless; he left a man of destiny six years later.

Lincoln learned to depend on the friendship and understanding of his neighbors. The menfolk debated with him and helped him. The married womenfolk mended his scanty wardrobe and cooked for him. The Rutledges, the Camerons, the Kelsos, the Onstots, the Doctors Allen and Regnier, Mentor Graham, the schoolteacher—all played important roles in the moulding of the man.

In New Salem, Lincoln supported himself however he could. He worked as a clerk and mill hand, soldier, store-keeper, postmaster and deputy surveyor. He split rails. He developed elements of leadership and met Ann Rutledge. Three years after his arrival he was elected to the legislature. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1836. Next Spring, astride a borrowed horse, he moved to Spring-field

Strangely, Lincoln's stay in New Salem almost completely encompassed the village's brief history. In 1839, the county seat was established at nearby Petersburg and New Salem declined rapidly.

Now New Salem is a state park. It was rebuilt in the 1930's. Its 13 cabins, plus the Rutledge Tavern and shops, are of the squared logs of the Lincoln era.

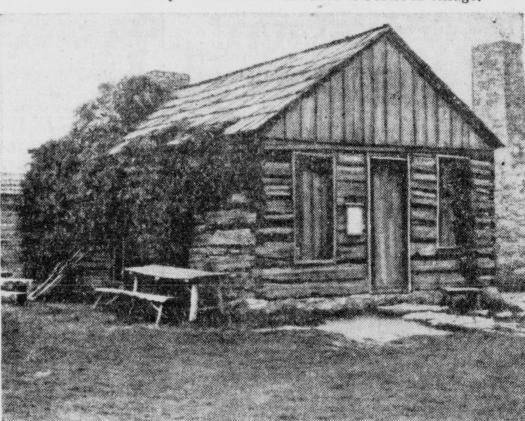

Second Lincoln-Berry store is stocked with merchandise typical of the 1830's. Venture failed and shackled Lincoln with debts. Raymond Montgomery and his wife, Alia, pose at the counter.

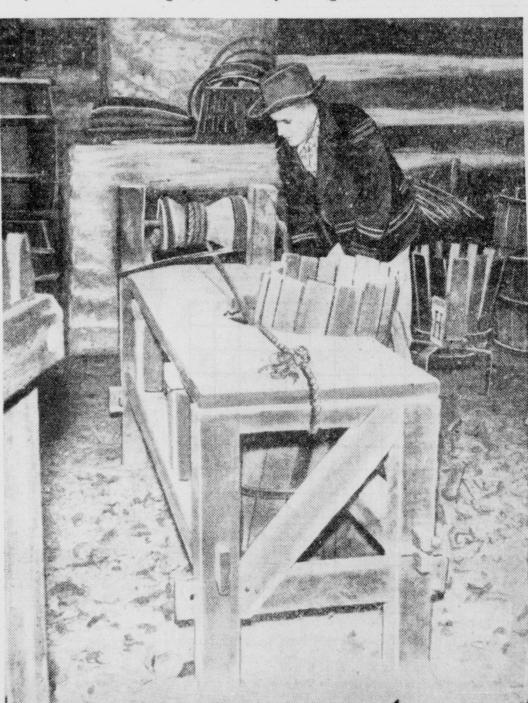

Statue of Abraham Lincoln as young man during his New Salem years stands at entrance to restored village.

Henry Onstot cooperage where Lincoln studied by logfire. Cabin is only structure in village in which any of original material remains.

Cooperage fireplace in front of which Abe studied is shown in back. Raymond Montgomery demonstrates barrel-making machine.
